Friches Théâtre Urbain

Kekzakallù (France)

Director Sarah Harper
Composer Patricia Dallio
Designer Bettina Munzer

Opera Macabre inspired by the story of Bluebeard with original music by Art Zoyd's Patricia Dallio

The company whose spectacular Mephistomania stalked the South Bank in 1995 bring the bloodlust of Bluebeard to London. Spectators are plunged into strange ribbons of dreams; screams from the abattoir, sighs from the fridge and chords that will curl your hair. Sarah Harper's Hitchcockian journey through Bluebeard's castle is a sensurround experience not to be missed.

Not recommended for the squeamish!
This is a promenade performance.

Tickets £9 Concessions £6

With financial assistance from Ministère de la Culture (DTS), Adami, and IANPE reseau culture spectacle. A co-production by L'Abattoir - Ville de Chalons-sur-Saone.

Working with Friches Théâtre Urbain

In 1995 Friches thrilled London audiences with their theatricality and amazing circus skills. Lots of people, young and old wanted to join in and have a go. This is your chance to work alongside the company looking at their special promenade style and learning how to take your audience on a journey they will never forget, Friches-style. Those experienced in theatre, dance and movement can even get up on stilts! Find out more about the company and their work, join them in a late afternoon discussion on Sunday.
